Daramola

My name is Lekan Daramola, a 400 level second class upper student of geology at the university of lagos and an astute programmer

I write javascript where i use front end tools like reactJs and Vue Js to build the front-end of websites and i also use Node Js to build back-end applications. I'm a fast learner and have the ability to learn new programming language thanks to my foundation in javascript.

I have experience working remotely building meaningful and productive software with also the ability to work with minimal supervision as I have the zeal to tackle any problems I might encounter independently to achieve the desired result.

I started programmig during the lockdown in 2020, in the space of one and a half years i have worked on various projects , including the BOI-UNILAG website.
